The Library Rules

Airs on YouTube and Facebook on Thursday, Sept. 17 at 4 p.m.

Library workers compete in a series of ridiculous tasks to be judged by the mysterious Rule Master. You will be challenged to decide who completes tasks in the best way and to complete tasks at home with your family!

Book Scouts: Avatar Read-Alikes

Have your children recently discovered Avatar: The Last Airbender and eaten up all of the graphic novels? Ms. Jennifer will share her picks for the best middle grade read-alikes for the beloved animated series.

The book talk video and list will go live at www.jcpl.org on Tuesday, Sept. 15. When you come to curbside throughout the month of September, ask for a button for your favorite bending nation!

While supplies last

I Give Way to None: Women's Suffrage in East Tennessee

Released on Facebook Tuesday, Sept. 22

Tabetha Garman, Associate Professor of American History and Humanities at Northeast State Community College, will tell the story of East Tennessee suffragettes and their fight for the right to vote at the turn of the twentieth century. This is a prerecorded lecture adapted from a live presentation.
